Social Media Policy

1 Introduction

- 1.1 Dunbritten understands that the internet and social media platforms are increasingly used as a means of communication both at work and at home. This policy outlines the standards we require staff to observe when using social media, the circumstances in which we will monitor your use of social media and the action we will take if this policy is breached. This policy should be read in conjunction with our communications policy, which sets out how the Company's internet and email systems and networks can be used by our staff and representatives.
- 1.2 This policy applies to all individuals, including employees, workers, temporary and agency workers, contractors, interns, volunteers and apprentices (referred to as 'staff' in this policy).
- 1.3 Staff should refer to the Company's Data Management Policy and, where appropriate, to its other relevant policies including in relation to data protection, equality, harassment and bullying, and information security.
- 1.4 The Corporate Services Manager is responsible for monitoring and implementing this policy. If you have any questions or comments on this policy, please contact them

2 Social media

- 2.1 In this policy, 'social media' means internet-based applications which allow users to collaborate or interact socially by creating and exchanging content, such as social networks or platforms, community sites, blogs, microblogging sites, wikis, web forums, social bookmarking services and user rating services.
- 2.2 Social media platforms allow us to build connections and to share ideas and content more broadly and quickly than ever before, and we support their use. However, improper use of social media may give rise to a breach of your employment contract and/or our policies, and/or defamation (i.e. damaging the good reputation of another person or organisation), breach of data protection laws, misuse of our confidential information or that of our customers, clients and/or suppliers and/or reputational damage.
- 2.3 This policy does not seek to regulate how staff use social media in a purely private capacity, provided that use has no bearing on the Association or its activities. This policy is intended to ensure that staff understand the rules governing their use of social media in relation to their work for us, or when referencing the Association, or where use of social media may affect us or our activities. It is designed to help you use these platforms and services responsibly, so as to minimise the risks set out above and to ensure consistent standards of use of social media. This policy therefore applies where:
 - 2.3.1 your use of social media relates to the Association or its activities;

- 2.3.2 your use of social media relates to, or is otherwise connected with, your work, whether the intended use is personal or professional;
- 2.3.3 you represent yourself, or are otherwise identifiable, as someone employed by, or otherwise associated with, the Company.

Once sensitive or confidential information (or offensive or defamatory information) has been disclosed, it cannot be recovered and this may result in liability both for the Company and also for you personally.
- 3.3 Bear in mind that, even if you are using social media in a personal capacity, other users who are aware of your association with us might reasonably think that you speak on our behalf. You should take account of any adverse impact your content might have on our reputation or our relationships with customers, suppliers and other business partners.
- 3.4 We ask that no member of staff details their employment with Dunbritton as part of their account or profile.
